Coxey's "Army" Takes the Road.

Less Than a Hundred Men in the Ranks.

They March Eight Miles to Canton, O.

-in-chief's Financial Affairs in Bad Shape-Senator Stewart.

CANTON (O.,) March 25.-In the face of a sharp, cold wind that brought shivers to the frames of ill-clad people, were a few less than a hundred of them. Not to exceed a dozen had overcoats or gloves. They had slept last night in pallets of straw in the airy and cheerless circus tent, and they were greeted this morning by the dis-agreeable discovery that no definite ar-rangements had been made for feeding them. Several hundred persons watched their departure from Massillon

About three thousand people assembled at the temporary camp at Reedurban and a host greeted the crusaders at Canton. A heavy snowstorm set in before the details of the camp had been completed, and the trampers are huddled around roaring campfires. About two-thirds of the men enlisted

About two-thirds of the men enlisted made the trip. Coxey has buried his disappointment over the non-appearance of the myrlad he expected, and is exultant over the handful who are prepared for business.

The Massillon camp presented an odd sight early this morning. No fire was permitted in the big tent, but there was a heap of blazing logs outside. Every few moments the fiaps of the tent were parted by a soldler of the common weal, who yisited the fire to drive away the chills. Soon he would, hurry back to burrow in the straw for another nap, and another would take his place. The "hobos" in the party became known just before breakfast. The army carried soap. The men burned straw and frol "hed about like a troop of boys.

A busile-dall for breakfast brought army carried coap. The men burned straw and frol 'yed about like a troop of boys.

A busic-call for breakfast brought them together at the tent with a rush. The bill of fare comprised bread, coffee and raw meat. The latter was affixed to the ends of sticks and roasted. One group of five men ran away in a body after breakfast and boarded a passing freight train. Thirty of the common-wealers spent the night as lodgers at the Massillon police station. They comprised two entire groups, who could not be found when they were needed for picket duty. They were on hand for breakfast.

At 8 o'clock, Marshal Louis Smith, otherwise the unknown, summoned the men to camp together, and they were organized into a commune. Smith drilled them for half an hour. He has added several formalities of military discipline to the rules of the common weal. One of them is the plan of having them march in files in two, and a more surprising innovation is the addition of military across the field, was given a raking over by Smith. Among other was to ask for Chief Marshal Browne, and salute when his attention is secured. Thus the despised military system is being introduced, even though the companies are called commune.

was to ask for Chief Marshal Browne, and salute when his attention is secured. Thus the despised military system is being introduced, even though the companies are called communes and the regiments communities. The eleven groups consolidated today are called the Chicago Commune.

Two hours before the time for departure, the tents were pulled down and preparation was made for the trip. Outsiders were directed to leave the field and await the common weal on the main streets of town. Campwagons and saddle-horses were brought in from Coxiana, and the soldiers had a busy time of it. A diversion was caused by a bulletin from Coxiana announcing a steamer had just passed that point laden with recruits from Canton. The steamer made the trip of nine miles in two and a half hours, but only a few men from Canton were enrolled. The followers of Coxey in this city were jubliant at first this afternoon at seeing the number of recruits that started with the commonweal army in its march, but they became disgusted when told the major portion were tramps. The Mayor has appointed twelve policemen to assist the regular city police when the army reaches here Tuesday. While he did not apprehend any trouble whatever, he made the appointments as a precautionary measure.

There is a well-defined belief that Coxey intends to desert the army here next Tuesday- and go to Chicago on the evening express. Last Thursday, while returning from Pittsburgh, Coxey asked a railroad official of this city what time the evening express was due to leave this city. When informed that returning from Pittsburgh, Coxey asked a railroad official of this city what time the evening express was due to leave this city. When informed that it left at 8:40 p.m., he said he would be compelled to go to Chicago, as he had several trotters there that he wished to sell on Wednesday at a stock sale. Some wagers were offered here at odds of 2 to 1, with no takers, that the army would disband before it reached Pittsburgh.

In contradiction of the general belief that Coxey is wealthy, Massillon people told those who came here within the past few days that his property was heavily encumbered. The reports culminated tonight in the statement that Coxey would be obliged to pay a heavy mortgage on the stallion Acolyte by next Saturday. He bought the horse from Col. James E. Pepper of Kentucky for $40,000 and paid $16,000 cash. A son of Col. Pepper was here last Monday and gave notice, so the report goes, that ample security would have to be given for the debt of $24,000 or there would be legal proceedings on Wednesday. The mortgage is said to include much of Coxey's property as we!! as the horse.

mander of the army of the common weai:

UNITED STATES SENATE,
MARCH 24, 1894.

Gen. J. S. Coxey, Massidon, O.—Dear Sir: The preservation of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness was intrusted to the people under the Constitution of the United States. A free bailot was the means by which the foreign people could retain their rights, acquired by the patriots who gained the independence and established the government of the United States. There was a time when the bailot placed the control of the government in Washington's, Jefferson's, Jackson's and Lincoln's hands. Such use of the bailot sent terror and dismay to tyrants, despots, and piundering oligarchies throughout the world.

The enemies of justice and human rights predicted that the success of the bailot was temporary; that man was not capable of self-government. The destruction of the ancient republics and the repeated failures of the people to govern themselves, were cited in proof of their contention that despotism, oppression and slavery were the fate of the human race. There have been no Washingtons, Jeffersons, Jacksons, or Lincolns elected President of the United States in two decades. A soulless despot of alien origin is monarch of the commercial world. His manks and bonds. His servants are banks and bonds. His servants are banks and bonds. His servants are banks and bonds. His servants are administrative and legislative bodies. The army you are collecting used the ballot to put the army, navy and Treasury Department under the control of banks and bondholders and place in the halls of Congress representatives to do the bidding of money-changers.

The ides of November are japproaching. An opportunity for the people to hangers. The ides of November are approach The ides of November are approaching. An opportunity for the people to strike for liberty will again be presented. The old parties which have surrendered the rights of the people to the rule of concentrated capital will ask for a renewal of their lease of power at the ballot-box. Every movement of the people to obtain relief outside the forms of law will be denounced as anarchy. The pursestrings of the nation are held by Congress, under the dictation of the administration, and the President is commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States. The attempt of a starving multitude to march toward Washington will furnish an excuse for using the power of the governments asing the power of the governments of the States, and of the United States, to put down anarchy and insurrection. The vigor with which the laws will be executed against starving people will be an argument in the next election for continuing in power concentrated capital as a necessity of maintenance of law and order.

The sufferings of the people are the capital as a necessity of maintenance of law and order.

The sufferings of the people are the result of electing the men to office who do the bidding of the money powers, who have destroyed more than one-half of the metallic money of the world by legislation and cornered the other half. Twenty years of uninterrupted rule of banks and bondholders has concentrated the wealth of the world in the hands of a few, enabling them to seize the telegraph, the press, and nearly every other avenue through which the people can obtain information of the cunning devices by which the parasites absorb what the masses produce.

There is but one battlefield where the forces of liberty on an equality can meet and overthrow the enemy of human rights. There is not a law on the statute books authorizing the President of the United States to march an army against the people at the ballot-box. Every attempt to place the ballot under the control of the Federal authority has thus far been successfully resisted. Let your army be reinforced by the millions of unemployed and by the wealth-producers of the nation, and be thoroughly mobilized for the battle in November, when a victory for the rights of man against the despotism of banks and bonds is assured.

Abandon the folly of marching an unarmed multitude of starving labor-Abandon the folly of marching an unarmed multitude of starving laborers against the modern appliances of war, under the control of a soulless money trust. Such folly will augment the power of the oppressor and endanger the safety of the ballot itself. Disorder is all that is required to insure the safety of the ballot supremacy of the armed forces of the moneyed power at the polls.

The Constitution of the United States is our charter of liberty. It has been subverted by an oligarchy of concentrated wealth. False agents of the people have betrayed the trust and brought misery and want, when abundance and prosperity seemed assured.

brought misery and want, when abundance and prosperity seemed assured.

Traitors to human rights have usurped the power of the government through the machinery of party, and the arts of demagogues. Hurl them from power. Trust no man who has once deceived you. Let the government of the United States administer for ordered against the provider the of the United States administer for and not against the people. Use the ballot to protect liberty, justice and equal rights, and not to elevate to power the agents of banks and bonds to perpetuate the rule of an oligarchy of wealth. Yours very truly, (Signed) WILLIAM M. STEWART.

COXEV'S BIVAL DENVER, March 25.-Bert Hamilton, who is organizing an army to go to Washington, tonight appointed one hun-dred officers, each of whom will be held during the week to work up the project. Mr. Hamilton says he will not start from Denver with less than 1000 men, and is confident of leaving Colorado with 5000.

TROUBLE IN TEXAS. SAN ANTONIO (Tex.,) March 25.-The Southern Pacific officials here received word tonight that the industrial army of 500 were put off the trains near Finlay Station, and the trains were laid up. The army broke a switch lock and threw the switch open, caus-ing the east-bound train to take the siding. The men climbed on the cars. and Conductor Martin pulled them to Finlay, where he tied them up, pend-ing the arrival of orders from General Superintendent Van Vleck. The orders Superinter dent Van Vieck. The orders came for him to keep the train tied up, as the company had decided not to carry the men.

Seyeral other trains have arrived at Finlay since, and all are tied up, as the army show no disposition to let any freight train depart without them.

WASHINGTON. March 25.—Senator Stewart of Nevada has written the following letter to J. S. Coxey, com-wholesome lesson for the men who might have attempted the march. The start from Massillon resembled the removal of an old-time country circus more than anything else. There was no Goddess of Peace in the procession as Coxey designed, his divorced wife refusing to permit her daughter to go with the army in that capacity. Coxey's son, Joseph, a boy of 16, was mounted on a blooded stallion from the stock farm, and wore a military uniform.

Browne and the other officers were similarly mounted, while the "general" rode in a phaeton behind one of his favorite horses. Mrs. Coxey and her three-year-old son rode in a buggy. The rank and file of the army brought up the rear on foot, following the band wagon, which very much resembled a gypsy's traveling conveyance. Before the start the noon-day rations were dispensed. They consisted of a can of salmon and a loaf of bread for each group of five, a small silice of ham for each man. This seemed to satisfy the men, and they marched away with light hearts and buoyant setp.

commissioners, Orr and Martin. The Governor refuses to be interviewed. The lawyers have hit upon a new scheme for installing Mullins and Barnes as Fire and Police Commissioners without waiting for a decision of the court in quo warranto proceedings. What their plan is, they would not divulge, but it is proposed to carry it into effect early this week. As a preliminary Mullins and Barnes will make a writter demand upon Orr and Martin. liminary Mullins and Barnes will have a written demand upon Orr and Martin tomorrow to vacate under the opinion of the Supreme Court that, on the case of the Supreme Court that, on the case as presented, the former are legally entitled to the offices.

ST. LOUIS. March 25.-The freezing weather that now prevails throughout this section of the Southwest is unprecedented for the month of March and is causing consternation among be neavy losers therefrom. Early vegetables had well advanced and fruit trees in many places had put forth buds, as a result of the recent warm spell, but how the prospects for a good crop have fellow. spell, but now the prospects for a good crop have fallen flat.

In some places in Illinois, Missouri and Southern Iowa, the temperature has fallen 10 deg. below freezing, and a slight fall of snow is reported at one place in the first-named State. It is still growing colder. Ice formed in this city today, and as far south as San Angelo, Tex., it was a quarter of an inch thick. The cold snap caught the fruit orchards in full blossom, and will no doubt cut the crop short. FALL OF FIFTY DEGREES.

MOAWEQUA (III.,) March 25.—During the past twenty-four hours the thermometer has fallen 50 deg. All peaches and cherries in this section of Central Illinois are killed. Budding fruits and early gardens are seriously damaged. It is freezing tonight.

IN WYOMING.

IN WYOMING. BUFFALO (Wyo.,) March 25.—Last week's blizzard, continuing seventy hours, has never been aproached in se verity by any other storm in this locality. Traffic is entirely suspended, and communication by wire with the outside world has only just been restored. Snow is drifted from tengto twenty feet deep in every direction. The mail coach took five days in making one trip from Clearmont, thirty miles.

The loss of stock is terrible. In one herd near Buffalo, containing stock which had been fed all winter, over 20 which had been fed all winter, over 20 per cent. perished The loss of range stock will likely be one-half, which will leave scarcely any stock in the country this spring. The tremendous snowfall insures wonderful grazing next season, and thousands of head of stock will be driven into the country.

Course of Action-The Democ

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The probabilities are that this week in the Senate will be given up largely to matters of minor importance. The McGarrahan bill is on the calendar as McGarrahan bill is on the calendar as unfinished business, and will have the right of way after 2 o'clock Monday. There will be an effort made to dispose of this before the close of the week, and Senator Hansbrough has given notice that he will again call up the Russian Thistle Bill immediately after the disposal of the McGarrahan bill. Senator Dolph also intends to make an effort if the occasion occurs to

The House will devote the coming week to the contested election cases. Tomorrow is District of Columbia day, and it is probable a portion of the time will be given to the bills from the District of Columbia Committee. After which the postoffice bill, which was under discussion when the House adjourned yesterday, will be called up and disposed of. According to the arrangement made Friday, the O'Neil-Joy concested-election case will be called on Tuesday. Inasmuch as the Republicans are already committed to the policy of filibustering against the election cases, they will consume the entire week. The Republicans will demand the presence of a Democratic quorum at every stage in the parliamentary proceedings.

Every means known to parliamentary law will be used to prevent the seating of O'Neil and English, the Democratic contestants from the Eleventh Missouri and Fifth California districts, respectively. Should the cases, by any chance, be disposed of before the end of the week, the House will resume the consideration of the appropriation bills. The Army Bill will next be in order. These routine matters will probably occupy the attention of the House until the tariff bill returns from the Senate.

Inquiry among the Republican Senators as to the policy they will pursue with reference to the tariff bill when it shall reach the Senate, develops the fact that they are as yet undecided as to whether they will move to recommit the bill upon the commencement of the debate, on Monday week. This was the first plan when the bill was received, from the House, and the Democratic majority of the Finance Committee refused to grant hearings, but there are indications that they have reconsidered, and will not move in this direction, at least not at the beginning of the debate.

There is no indication, however, that they have reconsidered, and will not move in this direction, at least a montant hearings, but there are indications that they have reduced in the bill. They expect the general speeches on the bill during the present sess

Mrs. McCarther Denies That She Ran Away With Cobb-The Latter in Portland-Mrs. Langtry's New

Associated Press Leased-w re Service. SILVER CITY, (N. M.,) March 25. The biggest land-grant claim ever made in this county is now before the United trates Court of Private Land Claims a Santa Fe. It is known as the Peraita grant, and is for 12,800,000 acres of land in New Mexico and Arizona. The eastern boundary of the grant is about ten miles east of this place, and the grant extends west about 250 miles, including Phoenix, the capital of Arizona. The Phoenix, the capital of Arizona. The width of the grant is eighty miles. Be tween this place and Phoenix there are about a dozen towns of importance and some of the richest mineral and agriltural lands in the entire Southwest all of which are included in this encrous grant, which is claimed by a who have formed a company for the prosecution of the claim. Reavis has en about thirty years in gathering testimony in support of his claim. It is alleged that he first discovered dence of the claim while he was employed in a law-office in St. Louis, and since that time his life has been devoted to making and maturing plans for securing the grant. He first obtained the chain of title from the original grantee, Senor Don Miguel Silva de Peralta de la Cordoba, to whom it is claimed the Spanish King granted this enormous tract in 1748. The grantee willed the land to his son, Miguel Peralta in 1778, and Miguel Peralta deeded it to George M. Willing in 1884, or seventy-six years after the date of his father's will. Other transfers were made down to 1882, when Reavis obtained the title. Reavis married in California the only descendant of Peralta and the siaim is also based on the right of this woman as an heir of the original grantee. of the claim while he was em-woman as an heir of the original grantee.

A mass of testimony has been taken in California, which tends to show that her claim is a valid one. Thousands of dollars have been expended in getting this testimony and having it printed in English and Spanish. The attorneys in the case are Hon. J. O. Broadhead of St. Louis, United States Minister to Switzerland; P. B. Thompson, Jr. of Kentucky and J. H. Knaebel of Santa Fe for the claimants, and United States Attorney Matt C. Reynolds is assisted by S. Mallett Prevost of New York as special counsel for the government, having been selected to conduct the case by Atty.-Gen. Olney. The claimants are ready for trial at the next term of the land court, which will be held at Santa Fe in May; but it will take the attorneys for the government perhaps two years to make all, the necessary preparations.

Reavis commenced working up the heirs of Miguel Silva, who the case the heirs of Miguel Silva, who also claim to be descendants of Peralta, have filed a claim in conflict with the Reavis claim for 4,100,000 acres. The copper mines of Clifton and Globe, the most valuable in the Southwest, and the gold districts of Pinos Altos, Carlisle, Mogella, Cooney and Silver Creek are also covered by the grant. If it should be confirmed, it would make the claimants the largest land-owners in the United States, and at the same the wealthiest company in the country.

"I left here," said he, "in July, 1892. After considerable difficulty in securing funds and making preparations for the journey, I got away from Liverpool in the following December. I went through the lake regions enough to get in-formation about the animals, inhabi-tants and condition of the country for my purpose. After this journey I returned to Lake Foranvaz, through which I had already passed. There I found a suitable place to erect my cage. I located it one mile from the lake in a dense jungle, for the gorilla will not live in an open country. It was on the south side of the lake, about two degrees south of the equator. I do not know the longitude, but it was one day's journey to the seacoast in a direct line.

"I had been advised by the natives that it was the best situation in southwestern Africa to find gorillas. In this locality many had been captured by white hunters. I slung my cage, with the assistance of three natives. The cage consisted of a netvives. The cage consisted of a network of steel rods five-sixteenths of an inch thick. I brought it with me in eight sections, each six feet six inches long. These sections weighed forty-five pounds in all. I anchored it with three heavy white three heavy chains passed over the roof. As a precaution, a network of steel wire was thrown around the rods steel wire was thrown around the rods as a guard. The roof was made of bamboo, and I had with me a canvas tarpaulin, in case of rain. My effects consisted of household utensils, two revolvers, one magazine rifle, one airgun and hollow arrows, filled with prussic acid, which I discharged with blowguns. The best safeguard I had was a device of my own invention. It was a bag, like a large canteen, filled with concentrated ammonia, to which was attached a hose thirty inches long, with a nozzle, through which I could force the ammonia, which would sufforcate a gorilla ten feet away. The cage stood on a foundation three or four feet from the ground.

"I had no phonograph, as the one ordered from Edison on May 3, 1893, never reached me. I had the invoice, and was very much disappointed at not receiving it, as it, would have aided me very materially in my experiments. Unfortunately, my photographic appliance falled to work, also, I went into the cage alone on April 25, 1893, and remained in it until August 6, Of course, I came out for short intervals. For my young chimpanzee, Moses, which I had with me, I built a hut outside the cage. We dined together, and on these occasions Moses was not confined, but went in and out at will. One some occasions he behaved very badly, for the etiquette of the race is not always perfect. I think I can safely say, more than any other white man living.

"My position was such that the gorrilais would come every close, and I could sit calmly and study every detail of movement and expression. I never had occasion to use my gun but once, then I cocked it and aimed at the gorilla to rescue my pet dog, but before I fired the gorillas while outside of the cage. Many things which I have heard before and since my researches, in magazines and natural history, about the gorilla are fictitious.

about the gorilla are fictitious.

"I have learned more than six or eight words of the chimpanzee language. These I can not give you, for they are not amenable to any known etymology or orthography. I cannot pronounce them. If I could, I would willingly give them to you. I think there are about forty or fifty words or utterances in their language. The gorilla certainly has marital relations, but no ceremony.

"I learn from the natives that they are polygamists; however, I am quite certain they keep the same female as a wife for many years. I have seen groups of three or four in which are always one male only. It is very clear to me that they have a patriarchial form of government. I was assured by a man whom I believe to be truthful that he has seen a gorilla sitting on the ground eating plaintains. They were brought by other male gorillas to his suposed majesty after being gathered by females. The only thing which inclines me to doubt the story is the fact that the gorillar ararely ever eats the plantain itself, but lives on the meat of the plantain tree, which he tears to pieces.

"The gorillas are at full maturity when they reach the age of 8 or 10 years. They do not build houses, and are not carniverous, but omniverous. Their vocal organs are alway would aproach my cage they would aproach my cage they would take one peep and turn away wholly unconcerned. The natives told me if I blackened my face they might attack me. I had nine attacks of fever. The natives, like myself, are firmly convinced that the gorilla and chimpanzee tribes have a language.

"I brought back to London with me two chimpanzees. They died soon after their debut into civilization. I preserved their skins and skulls. I also brought the vocal organs of four chimpanzees and three gorillas and the brain of one gorilla. The brain of the chimpanzee which died in London was sent to Oxford at the request of the university, where it will be examined and an official report rendered."

EASTER SUNDAY.

A Cloudy Day in New York, But Magnificen

NEW YORK, March 25.—Easter, usually accompanied by sunshine, was ushered in with fog and clouds. It was not a day for the exhibiting of was not a day for the exhibiting of new spring dresses and millinery, but the incense of flowers was everywhere and sweet music pealed from the churches. Elaborate programmes had been prepared in all the churches, notably St. Patrick's Cathedral, Trinity, St. Paul's, St. Thomas's, St. Andrews's, St. Francis's, the Savior's and the First, Central and West Presbyterian churches.

The temples of worship on Fifth avenue were, as usual, the center of attraction, and the parade on that thoroughfare to and from service was the grand procession that it aiways is. St. Patrick's was packed to the doors. The decorations were gorgeous, and the music surpassed, perhaps, anything that had been heard before in the edifice. The parishioners, that they might not be crowded out by strangers, were given tickets, and the throng that came filled up the aisles and the vestibules and stretched to the street. Solemn pontiff: mass was celebrated at 11 o'clock b. Archbishop Corrigan. The chorus was composed of 500 voices, and, besides, there was a chancel choir of ninety boys. The programme included selections from Gounod, Hemmel and Kellscheimer.

At old Trinity the high celebration at 1:30 o'clock brought a throng greater than the church could hold. The choicest flowers filled the church full of rich perfume. In the rear of the chapel was a gold cross, fully two feet high. It had been placed there the night before, and no argument can wring from Rector Dix the name of the donor. The cross is inlaid with precious stones. Rev. Mr. Morgan Dix preached the sermon on "He is Rissen." The evening services were concluded at 4 o'clock.

AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.-Easter Sunday was celebrated in this city with unusual splendor, and the various with unusual splendor, and the various churches were filled to overflowing. At several of the large Catholic and Episcopalian churches, it was necessary to issue tickets of admission, and even then, in one or two Catholic churches, policemen found it difficult to keep back the crowds that insisted on entering. The day was magnificent. The floral decorations have never been exceeded in profuseness or beauty, and the religious and musical exercises were more than usually elaborate.

This afternoon the street cars were overloaded with people bound for the park and the fair. Very few people in the city failed to observe the day in one way or another.

GEORGE'S DOCTRINE.

Statement That It is Condemned by the Pope Discredited. ed Press Leased-wire Service.

NEW YORK, March 25 .- There published here today a statement from the Rome correspondent that the holy office has condemned the doctrine Henry George, and this condemnation will be followed by some grave consequences. In view of the fact that will be followed by some grave consequences. In view of, the fact that Henry George is expected to be a candidate for the mayoralty of this city, and that such a pronouncement would seriously affect his chances of success, an Associated Press representative made inquiries as to the truth of the statement today.

Henry George said: "I do not believe there is any truith in the statement. I do not think the holy office will, or can, condemn my doctrines." In answer to a question as to whether the papal encyclical was not condemnatory of his theories, Mr. George said: "The encyclical does not deal with my doctrine at all, and therefore cannot condemn it. My doctrine is so palpably encyclical does not deal with my doc-trine at all, and therefore cannot con-demn it. My doctrine is so palpably right that any such condemnation as that spoken of is utterly impossible." Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn looked upon the statement as absurd. "I am positive," he said, "that it is false. The inquisition has neither condemned Mr. George's doctrines, nor will it do so. Of that you may rest assured."

Associated Press Lessed-wire Service.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 25.—(By Atlant icCable. Associated Press Copyright, 1894.) Affairs here are rapidly resuming their normal aspect, and aside from the damage to the forts and along the water front by the firing of the insurgent warships, all traces of warfars surgent warships, all traces of warfare have disappeared. The past week has been one of continual festivity, marked by the constant firing of salutes and the holding of revelews. The usual re-ligious processions were held, and the church services were very largely attended. For months past the city was filled with troops, and almost every-thing partook of military character. Now the troops, or at least a greater number of them, will go south to reinforce the government forces in the State where the insurgents are still opposing the federal forces.

The harbor has been deserted by foreign ships, and the dicharging of merchant vessels is proceeding as before chant vessels is proceeding as before the revolution. The government enter-tains no fear of much greater trouble in the south. The insurgent sym-pathizers claim that the placing of Ad-miral de Mello at the head of the pro-miral de Mello at the head of the provisional government will attract persons to the rebel standard, but the government here believes that the insurgent forces will gradually melt away until nothing remains.

It is reported here that the rebels are aiready retreating from Rio Grande do Sul, and it is thought by the time the government reinforcements arrive there, there will be no enemy to engage. At any rate, it is declared by the government officials who are in a position to know the exact position of affairs in the south, that no battle of consequence is likely to occur. Busiaffairs in the south, that no battle 'or consequence is likely to occur. Business in Rio is rapidly reviving. This is especially true in the case of houses dealing with American merchants. It is the general opinion here that the attitude of the United States during the trouble here will result in a material increase in the business done with that trouble here will result in a material increase in the business done with that country.

There has, of course, been much talk of the flight of Admiral da Gama and his officers on the Portuguese warships. Most of what has been in this connection, particularly between Brazil and Portugal, growing out of the asylum afforded the insurgent officers by the commanders of the Portuguese warships, was simply a bluff. The story to the effect that the police were arresting many foreigners suspected of being concerned directly or indirectly with the revolt is a gross exaggeration. As a matter of fact, the police have arrested no foreigners for this reason. Whatever arrests have been made were simply for violation of the law. Arrests are likely to occur at any time. It is pointed out that no single for reigner of importance has been molested. The correspondents of the various American newspapers have left, the city en route to their homes, or are making preparations for their departure, which is evidence that the trouble is over, so far as Rio is concerned.

There may be some news of imporis concerned.

There may be some news of importance later from the south, but the consensus of opinion is that the trouble there is also practically over. Martial law continues to be enforced here, but this fact has little or no effect upon business of the port. The government fleet has been ordered south. It is thought, however, these orders will be countermanded. The whereabouts of the insurgent warship Aquidaban is not known here.

Inis, are still cruising north of that city. The Aquidaban and other vessels of Admiral Mello's fleet are still at Desterro. The rebels have captured the Yadaya, another vessel carrying munitions of war for Peixotto's forces. Admiral Mello is at Parana, with a French engineer, engaged in strengthening the harbor defenses. Gen. Saraiva is in Sao Paulo, where he is operating on the frontier.

President Peixotto has removed Gen. Leite, and has placed Gen. Gastro in command of the division of the army in the north. His reason for the charge is not known, and his order caused general surprise.

The Portuguese Consul at Montevideo left here in a launch last night, and sailed to the Portuguese warship Albuquerque, which is off Flores Island, before she continued on her way to Ruenos Ayres. At quarantine, sixty seven Brazillan rebel officers were counted on board the Albuquerque, The commander of the warship refused jo talk, but told the Consul he was going to Buenos Ayers to await orders from the government at Lisbon. He declined to say whether or not the fugitive admiral, Da Gama, was on board his vessel.

No action has yet been taken by the Uruguayan government, regarding the demand of the Brazilian government that Silveras Martine be expelled from the Consul page of the country.

There seems to be a weil-defined suspicion that the Chinaman was arrested on Thursday, and it is supposed he is connected with the murder of Susie Martin, whose mutilated trunk was found in the cellar of a tenement in "Hell's Kitchen." It is said the police have kept him carefully concealed, and it is rumored that two other Chinamen are to be arrested by Inspector McLaughlin's detectives for complicity in the death of Susie Martin.

Agile Young Athletes of the Turnverein.

Close Training the Secret Their Adeptness.

An Outline of the Very Thorough Exercise Drill.

Many Entries Promised for the Annual Bench how of the Southern California Kennel Club-San Francisco Dogs to Be Exhibited.

There are some men of muscle, well skilled in athletic exercises and the feats of the gymnasium, among the members of the active section of the Turnverein Germania, in this city, al-though they appear but seldom in public events and are hardly known by name as athletes outside of their own organi-zation. Nevertheless they train con-scientiously, and form the best-drilled body of their kind in the southern por-on of the State.

Since the Turners were established Since the Turners were established here, a number of years ago, the gymnasium work has been a feature to which particular attention has been paid. A compétent instructor has all times been in charge of the regular classes, and once every quarter a field day, on which medal contests are the order, have furnished opportunity for outdoor exhibition work and practical trials.

They go through the exercises with precision and exactness, and obey their instructor in all mafters, while under his charge during class time. A Times reporter visited the old gymnasium on Spring street on Friday evening, and found instructor F. L. Jahn just about to put his class of twenty-five well-developed young men through their paces. Mr. Jahn is a comparatively young man himself, and came out here work done by national guardsmen. After straightening the line Jahn gave a second command in German, and the men faced to the right and started off at a brisk double-quick around the hall, keeping time to the word given by their instructor. Then they lined up again and were put through various evolutions, making but few mistakes and paying the closest heed to the orders given.

The company drill over, the several divisions were marched off in charge of the most proficient of the athletes, and the gymnasium work proper commenced, the head of each division constituting the under instructor. Mr. Jahn superintended the arrangement of the apparatus used, and frequently gave advice to an awkward man who might make a clumsy attempt to follow his classmates in the exercise. There was no shirking of work, and the whole class went through the course of training for nearly two hours without break or rest. At the end of that time Capt. Louis Breer, Jr., called the roll, and they once more scattered about the room to amuse themselves as they pleased for another hour.

Instructor Jahn expects great things from his men in the future. He said that the class was a model one, and that the membership was constantly increasing. When the qurters in the new building are taken possession of he thought that more active workers could be expected to join with the athletic division.

could be expected to join with the athletic division.

Of those who have been with the Turners the longest, perhaps. Louis Breer, Jr., the captain, stands first. Breer is only 19 years of age, but he is one of the best all-around athlets in the city. His specialty, however, is pole-vauliting, he having won a number of contests during the past two years. William J. Bliesner is particularly adept at jumping. On the high jump his record is 5 feet 5 inches; on standing broad jump 19 feet.

Herman Sturm is another of the most enthusiastic Turners. Sturm is an expert at hand-over-hand climbing broad jumping, putting the shot, polevaulting and hand-over-hand climbing.

On April 14 the new gymnasium will will enter upon the broader field of athletic work already mapped out.

Prospects for a Success'ul Bench Show Very Encouraging-Notes.

The Southern California Kennel Club The Southern California Kennel Club has issued its premium list for the sixth annual bench-show, to be held in Music Hall April 18 to 21 inclusive. The prizes provided are many, $500 being offered in cash, besides a large lot of merchandise, which has been contributed. C. A. Sumner, the secretary of the club, announces that all entries will be closed on April 7.

Referring to the bench-show the Breeder and Sportsman publishes the following paragraph:

Referring to the bench-snow the Breeder and Sportsman publishes the following paragraph:

"San Francisco fanciers will support the Los Angeles show in a body. Present indications are that not less than 100 entries will be sent from this section. W. H. Lacy, kennel editor of Forest and Stream, has been asked to judge, but as satisfactory arrangements could not be made he will not come to the Coast this year. James Mortimer is engaged as superintendent of the Model Farm and Specialty Club shows at Madison Square Garden. John Davidson and J. Otis Fellows are engaged at Boston on same dates; consequently, as all of the 'all-round' Eastern judges are out of the question, the club has decided to use local judges."

And the San Francisco Chronicle adds:

"The local dog-fanciers are making a vigorous protest against the appointment of A Bussell Crowell as judges."

adds:

"The local dog-fanciers are making a vigorous protest against the appointment of A. Russell Crowell as judge of the coming bench-show at Los Angeles. As there will be no bench-show in this city this year the local men expected to concentrate at Los Angeles, but now they declare they will not go there, and in consequence nearly fitty dogs will stay at home that would have otherwise have gone south. The antipathy toward Crowell is on account of his alleged incompetence. It is said that he never judged a bench-show in his life. He is a recent arrival from the East, where, it is claimed, his reporting knowledge has never been known to exceed a fairly intimate acquaintance with game chickens. The local men say that they believe the Los Angeles club was deceived by some designing dog-dealers."

AT THE CHURCHES.

The Easter Services Very Largely Attended.

Pontificial High Mass Celebrated at the Cathedral.

Special Services at the Various Episcopal Churches.

Sermons Appropriate to the Occasion De Peatures-At the Other

The Cathedral was crowded to overflowing yesterday for the Easter services, which consisted of pontifical mass with His Lordship the Bishop as celebrant, and were very impressive. The music was especially fine, Father Fitzgerald of Beaumont preached the sermon, taking for his text: "This is the day which the Lord made, let us be glad and rejoice therein," Psalm cxvii. He said that these were strong words, but not less strong than those words, but not less strong than those which the fathers of the church use when speaking of this great day which we celebrate. St. Augustine says "that as Mary surpasses all the angels we celebrate. St. Augustine says "that as Mary surpasses all the angels and saints in heaven, so Easter surpasses all the other feasts of the church." St. Gregory Naziazen styles Easter "the festival of festivals, the solemnity of solemnities, as far above the other feasts of the year, even those of Christ Himself, as the sun outshines the stars." To every thoughtful mind the question must naturally arise why such language, whence such surpassing dignity? Has not the Lord, and Creator made every day as well as this day? Today Christ Jesus established His divinity, and the divinity of the holy religion which lie came to teach. To this day did the prophets point, to this day did Jesus Himself direct attention—it is the day when death is changed into life. The speaker said that the resurrection of our blessed Lord was a miracle in fulfillment of a prophecy. That Jesus of Nazareth died on Mt. Calvary, crucified between two thleves, and that He arose on the third day, are facts attested by profane history. There were many witnesses of His death and many witnesses of His resurrection. A guard of vigilant Roman soldiers was placed around the sepulcher, and the door sealed by the Governor. These watchers bore disinterested testimony to the truth of His rising again. The speaker then entered into a discussion of the resurrection, and said that Christ had by His own power raised Himself from the dead, thereby proving that He was God and man—man in His death and God in His resurrection, for to give life is the sole prevegative of divine power. He closed with an earnest prayer for those still in the slavery of sin, and told of the great love and anxiety of Jesus Christ for the happiness of mankind, now and for eternity.

UNITY CHURCH.

UNITY CHURCH. S. Thomson, the pastor, preached a sermon on "Christ as the Son of God," from the text, "I am the Son of God," John x,36. At the Church of the Unity, Rev. J sermon on "Christ as the Son of God," from the text, "I am the Son of God," John x,36.

Christ defined God thus: "God is spirit;" and spirit fills the infinite universe. Organized life is not omnipresent—not in the interstellar spaces, in rocks, in iron bars. Spirit is the parent of all forms of life. Every human being is a child of spirit, and is a god, being at the head of creation on this planet. Genesis speaks of "Sons of God;" Psalm ixxxii says, "Ye are God, and ye are all children of the Most High." Christ called Himself the Son of God, and appealed to the authority of this psalm; Adam is called the son of God in Luke, and several other parts of the New Testament refer to human beings as sons of God. God fills the universe, but Christ never said Heilled it. If the infinite God had been all in Christ's body, the rest of the universe was God-forsaken. We cannot think of locomotion in connection with a being who is infinite; but Christ was sent, came from God, returned to God, showing that His spirit moved from place to place. He prayed; did He pray to himself? "The Father in Me doeth the works." "God hath taught Me." He refused to be called good in the absolute sense; "No one is good but God." Christ's genealogy is He pray to himself? "The Father in Me doeth the works." "God hath taught Me." He refused to be called good in the absolute sense; "No one is good but God." Christ's genealogy is traced through Joseph; but if Joseph were not his father his genealogy should be traced through Mary. In this series of sermons about Christ, we are striving to find out what He said about Himself; not what Paul said. or Calvin, or Channing, or St. Augustine. What He said about Himself should satisfy us; and He never said anywhere that He was God, but He didsay, "I am the Son of God." He differed from all other teachers in these respects; He remembered clearly His pre-existent life; He saw His future in a blaze of glory; He had the spirif without measure, a carte blanche for unlimited spiritual force for miracles; He communed with God, not face to face, but in His own soul; He rose from the dead and appeared to his friends, "The God-head dwelt in Him bodily; "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father," in the grandest human form; the love, the power, the wisdom, the forgivenness, the care of God, are beheld in Me, in the fullest human manifestations; "I am the resurrection," the bridge over which the dead pass to eternal day; the human and the divine finet in Him, as carbon and oxygen meet in the flame, as oxygen and hydrogen mix in water. He is the bright image of God, and His brightness is the torch which will ultimately scatter the darkness of earth.

ing, and the pastor, Rev. F. M. Larkin, preached a very interesting sermon, taking as his subject "The Victory of Death." The text selected was from I Corinthians, xv. 54. "Death is swallowed up in victory."

He said that, from a human standpoint, death is a hideous monster. Though scientists tell us there is no physical pain at the time of dissolution, yet all have a dread of death. It is not so much the thought of dying as fear as to what shall be our condition after death. If a man has not feared God, or kept His commandments during this life, it is, indeed, a fearful thing to be called to meet Him in eternity.

This terror may be removed by a saving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. The Christian dies full of peace and joy, trusting implicitly in the words of Christ, "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you." The terrible thought of annihilation is done away with both by reason and by scripture. The idea of immortality is so impressed upon the human mind that it cannot be eradicated. He closed by saying that the resurrection of Christ can no more be denied than the assassination of Caesar. The word of God and reason are in harmony with the doctrine of resurrection, and they can be no doubt that the soul that passes out of this life at peace with God passes into a triumphant and glorious immortality.

Rev. J. W. Campbell, preached to anattentive congregation. His subject was "The Resurrection of Christ the Motive of Christian Missions." He took for his text, "And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain." I Corinthians. xv, 13.

As adaptation to a given end is a perpetual feature in creation, so we ever look for adaptability in every product of the divine mind. Any plan devised by our Heavenly Father for promoting the spiritual and eternal welfare of men will always reveal a divine purpose, which will be in perfect harmony with our needs.

The great problem which any true revelation must solve is how to save this world. Natural religion does not afford such a revelation. It is left for the religion of the Bible to give us a solution to such a problem. If we ask for an explanation of the supernatural through natural causes, we must at once answer that the supernatural cannot be explained through nature. It has been said that every man's history ends with his grave, and that which lies beyond belongs to the realm of faith.

To such a rule, however, Jesus Christ, ends with his grave, and that which lies beyond belongs to the realm of faith.

To such a rule, however, Jesus Christ, at all events, has proved an exception. Evidence goes to show that, on the third day after His death and burial, He appeared to His disciples many times, to prove to them, without doubt, the fact of His resurrection and to confirm and strengthen their faith. He appeared in bodily form, showing the print of the nails in His hands and feet, and with the spear gash in His side.

Some may claim that the witnesses were not scientific in their investigations respecting this great mystery. The only question involved was the fact and not the cause.

The speaker then entered into a learned discussion of the resurrection. He stated that the resurrection of Christ proclaims an accepted sacrifice. The death of Jesus is the prime mystery of the world. His was no ordinary death. Jesus Christ was the only sinless adult being that ever lived among men.

We recoil at the possible execution of a person who was not guilty. Jesus was not only innocent of the crime charged against him, but was innocent of every crime. He challenged His enemies in the memorable words. "Which of you convicteth me of sin?" He was holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners.

He closed by saying that when Jesus arose from the dead He put the church in possession of these great truths—the immortality of the soul, an atonement for sin, and the reality of a divine incarnation. These wonderful truths formed the groundwork of the preaching of the apostles, and are the inspiration of the gospel being preached in all the world today.

SIMPSON TABERNACLE.

A large congregation assembled in Simpson Tabernacle Surday morning. The Easter praise service was excellently rendered. Dr. E. W. Caswell, first pastor of the church, was present and assisted in the services. Rev. C. E. McLean, D.D., chose for the subject of his sermon St. John, 10,17-18. He said in opening men may formulate a doctrine that may deceive men, but cannot conduct a practice that will mislead them. Because Christ died and rose again men believe in Him. "Destroy this temple and in three days! will rear it up-again," was Christ's prophecy of Himself. By His death and resurrection. He established hope for every one that believes. Profane history, as well as sacred history, establishes the truth and reality of the resurrection. The testimony of the apostles, His forty days on earth and frequent appearances to His diciples, the testimony of the divided women who were first at the thmb and were first to recognize the risen Savior—the doubting Thomas, the denying Peter, the Loving John, all testified to the reality of the personality of their risen Savior.

TEMPLE-STREET CHRISTIAN. Rev. A. C. Smither preached to an interested congregation at the Templestreet Christian Church on "The Empty Grave." He argued the resurrection of Christ. The events of Christ's life Grave." He argued the resurrection of Christ. The events of Christ's life are conspicuous in human history. That He lived and died is conceded by all. That His grave was emptied of tis body was evidenced by the testimony of the angel, by his friends and enemies. In only one of three ways could it have been emptied. His body was either taken away by His friends or enemies, or He arose from the dead. His friends did not remove His body, for the reason that they did not expect Him to rise, and from the fact that His enemies guarded His tomb lest He should be stolen. To suppose that twelve of His followers conspired to palm off on the race the falsehood of His resurrection and to die in attestation of this falsehood is absurd. His enemies did not remove His body, else they would have produced it when the resurrection was preached. It remains for a certainty that He arose from the dead. This was in harmorly with the phase of human redemption running all through the Bible; with the nature and character of Jesus while walking among men; with the proof produced in favor of the resurrection; and with the great system founded upon this event.

The significance of this event is that. Jesus was approved by God, His divinity was proved by it, the miraculous powers vested in Him are no longer wonderful, and His teachings were founded upon its truth. This event, furthermore, assures to the Christian the resurrection from the dead and the immortality of the soul.

This congregation begins the erection of a new house of worship on the corner of Eleventh and Hope streets this week.

SECOND UNITED PRESBYTERIAN.

SECOND UNITED PRESBYTERIAN. The services yesterday morning at Y.M.C.A. Hall, where the Second Uni-Y.M.C.A. Hall, where the Second United Presbyterian congregation worships, were highly interesting and appropriate to the day. The music had in it the notes of resurrection joy, while from platform, organ and plano callas, roses and vines proclaimed the same thought. The pastor, Rev. Henry W. Crabbe, conducted the opening service, after which Dr. McAyeal of Lawrence, Mass., preached an able discourse, the theme being "The Great Invitation."

ST. PAUL'S EPISCOPAL.

At St. Paul's Church the rector, Rev. John Gray, preached from St. John xx.28, "My Lord and my God."

The speaker said that some men reach the truth by feeling after it, others by thinking after it. St. Thomas was that apostle who would think out his salvation. The testimony of emotionalism could not satisfy a deep spirit like his. Far better that truth should come to her throne in his soul through the weary way of patient inquiry—an everreigning queen, than like the fickle flame lighted by the torch of some sudden hope, only to disappear when some greater shadow darkens the spirit. It is a comfort to the doubting soul to know that the first great Easter, with its victor king, was not without its trial of faith, and it is most instructive that holy writ portrays for us the ST. PAUL'S EPISCOPAL.

and solemn asking of the soul, ever sesking and ever saying, "O, that I knew where I might find Him." Such souls are answered not for their much speaking," but for their much thinking. If we must doubt, let it be doubt like the apostle's, for then we shall not fall to find the challee of truth pressed to our line from God's own hand. The to our lips from God's own hand. The speaker closed with an impressive description of the beauty of faith.

EAST SIDE BAPTIST CHURCH. The East Los Angeles Baptist Church presented a handsome appear-ance with the floral decorations and ance with the floral decorations and Easter emblems. Rev. George E. Dye preached from the words. "And with great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus." He said: Christianity rests upon a fact, and not a fancy; upon a person, and not a pretext. The time for its observance is suggestive. "Nature wears a universal smile." Let us not approach a sepulcher, but a throne. Let us not worship forms and talk platitudes, but worship a living Christ. Let us dethrone death and enthrone life. We worship not a cold crucifix, but a sympathetic, living Savior. The resurrection contains all the doctrines of Christianity. As a great fact it is written, not upon the shifting sands of human emotions, but upon the granite of history. It is an established fact.

He thought that all error today is from creature worship rather than the worship of the Creator. Trace back sin through all of its ramifications, and it will be found that it exaits human nature and belittles God as a person. Evolution in many ways is devolution.

A dead Christ could never have been the basis of a living church. The miracle of the resurrection, like Aaron's rod, swallows up every other miracle. rod, swallows up every other miracle. That possible, every miracle is possible. "The fixedness of the order of things" is broken into, and the quasiscientific skepticism of all time is upset. Examine those witnesses. The fact is attested by plain, honest men, who scaled that testimony with their blood. They were sincere. Cowardly Peter becomes the courageous defender; doubting Thomas makes the double confession, "My Lord and my God." Common men shook the world by emphasizing this fact, and the hand of Jesus has "lifted empires off their hinges." The fact of an existing church demands the initial belief in a resurrection.

In conclusion, Mr. Dye read the sixth chapter of Romans, wherein baptism is set forth as an emblem of the death, burfal and resurrection of Christ, and then a willing candidate descended into the watery grave to confess faith in Christ. It was a scene befitting the great day which the church celebrates. PACIFIC GOSPEL UNION.

The jail meeting, held in the lower tank of the County Jail, was attended by a larse number of workers. The gospel wagon-workers held meetings at First and Los Angeles streets, and on Alameda street, with large and attentive crowds in attendance. In the evening Evangelist Mason preached a forcible sermon to a large crowd at the hall, taking as his subject, "Jesus, the Burden Bearer." A bright testimony meeting followed the sermon. Mr. Chandler sang a solo, and Charles Valentine played a violin solo.

The meetings will be conducted every night this week by Mr. Mason and his workers. On Wednesday an all-day meeting will be held. A fine programme has been prepared. Many prominent workers will be present, and a great spiritual feast is anticipated.

What a flood of prophetic daylight Christ Jesus, ere He died, poured over every hope of man, as over the future of His own life. He takes the seed of grain and shows what mighty potentialities its germ possesses. Within that amail inclosed thing lies a richness and tialities its germ possesses. Within that small inclosed thing lies a richness and a force which needs but the application of a power to burst its treasured wealth and to expand its precious fruit. Christ compares Himself to a seed of grain. And does He not thereby assert that when He came in human form He came subjected to the laws which compass this world? The Christian earth was not the Christ that was to be. The Incarnate One, while on the earth, lived under human limitations. His ministry was but the seed. When He rose from the dead, and rode upon the ascension cloud, His life quickened all humanity with new hopes and aspirations. What a grand liberation was in Christ in the transition through the portals of death. The risen Jesus has caused His resurrection to produce those spiritual fruits, known of all men who would have had Him remain forever as He was in Palestine. We need to know Him after the power of an endless life. The Easter appearance is the answer to all this. When Christ came up from the grave. He became the perpetual joy of His believing people. How much fruit the resurrection of Christ has produced no mortal mind can dream, nor mortal tongue can tell. The echoling sounds of His voice and the achievements of His power, have marked every Christian century. Heaven has set its seal to the sublime verity of this fact. Thousands upon thousands in every age are more than willing to swell the number of His capity host. With grand enthusiasm do they hall Him as the king. Within the limits of that human frame was concentrated the germ of all the life which He would give to the hall the life which He would give to the life w grand enthusiasm do they hall Him as the kink. Within the limits of that human frame was concentrated the germ of all the life which He would give to all humanity. In this one seed of life is all the hope that God has given to man, the germ and harvest of eternal life.

By mere comparison we tell the kind of seed from whence a grain has grown. Can we not predicate of the life of Christ the source of its heavenly characteristics? He gives us demonstration of that fact. Subjected to scrutiny, He is found perfect and holy. Put to death and buried, He resurrects Himself, and shows the ever-present divinity within Him. Crucifixion and death ring no hopeless knell over our dead Lord'z dead body. They prove the means by which the hidden life is opened and transmitted. It was not for Him to keep those powers secret and these potentialties inactive. When men are in doubt about a seed they plant it, and from its fruit demonstrate its nature. This is what Christ has done for us. And so for this He suffered and He died. And so for this He suffered and The peroration was in blank verse,

The services at the church yesterday partook of the general joy of resurrection day.

The interior of the church was appropriately decorated with lilies, marguerites and festoons of smilax. The music was in harmony with the thought of the day. The choir sang Verdi's "Christ the Lord is Risen Today." During the offerfory Handel's "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth" was sung by Miss Goodwin.

The pastor, Rev. Arthur Rider, preached from the text, "Who shall roll us away the stone? And the stone was rolled away." He said that this question of the women has become the symbol of all the sighs of humanity in its longings for the revelation of the resurrection. The stone of doubt lay upon the whole realm of the dead. "If a man die shall he live again?" was the question in substance which arose in every age and land. There had been as yet no answer which had removed this doubt. And now He who had spoken strange words of a resurrection lay mute and cold in the tomb, and the stone covered Him, and with Him it shut in the world's hope of resurrection. Humanity, with all its yearnings after immortality, was speaking in that question, "Who shall roll us away the stone?"

question, "Who shall follow the stone?"

The stone was also a type of the weight of sin, which sought to crush Him throughout life, and now sought to restrain Him from rising again. Men could take away the stone from the grave of Lazarus, but this stone, with all the weight of the mysteries of another life, which it covered, with all the penalty of the world's sin which it represented, was "very great," and must be rolled away by heavenly power.

An angel of the Lord descended from heaven and came and rolled back the stone from the door and sat upon it. The stone now rolled away revealed an empty tomb. When men open a grave they find a shriveled occupant, but when God opens the tomb it is seen to be vacant. He thus would show us by the empty grave that the grave is not a dungeon, but a passageway into the life hereafter.

Ye dowed by saving that those who, sade-yed, would steal away in the twill, an of their own sorrow and disappointment to embalm with fragrant memory their beloved dead, to these is this resurrection message, "He is not here," the grave is empty. as the grave vacant. So God turns the emblem of death into a token of life.

St. John's Episcopal Church was thronged with worshipers at all the services yesterday, and although admission to the morning service was by ticket only, many were unable to gain admission to the church. The misic was very elaborate, Monk's Episcopal church admission to the church. The misic was very elaborate, Monk's Epischaristic Service being particularly well sung. Ten persons, several of them adults, were baptized. In the morning the rector preached from I Corinthians, xv, 53-55, and outlined the argument which St. Paul advanced for the truth of the resurrection of man to a higher life than that which he now lives. The apostle foresaw that materialistic philosophy would inquire: "How are the dead raised up, and with what body do they come?" And he is ready with the answer that the material body is but the pledge of a spiritual body is but the pledge of a spiritual body to be given us hereafter. These materialistic questions are not as unanswerable as many seem to suppose. If we ckeely investigate we shall find that higher forms of being are brought into existence through the destruction of the lower forms which preceded them. Decay and corruption are but the preludes to a nobler life. After the dark night comes morning with its golden glow. After the rains and snows of winter emerges beautiful springtime, exuberant with a new life and redolent with the fragrance of flowers. Our Lord says: "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die it bringeth forth much fruit." And St. Paul tells us: "That which thou sowest is not quickened except it die." The glorified body of man, then, while it is the natural product and development of this body which we cast off at death, need not consit of the same material particles which now at any given moment go to make up that body. Holy scripture nowhere teaches, nor does the creed of the church catholic imply, that the resurrection of the body means the litera matters not what sort of body it may be which we lay down in death. It may be which we lay down in death. It may be the beauty and strength of youth, the promise of childhood or the worn and feeble frame of old age. The absolutely indestructible identity remains forever. Our bodies may die and decay, they may be torn apart and eaten by wild beasts, they may be burned up, as many of the martyrs were, but the identity—this ego—cannot die; and this indestructible self will hereafter receive a body, spiritualized, glorified and purified; "made like unto Christ's own glorious body, according to the mighty working whereby He is able to subdue all things unto Himself."

MEMORIAL BAPTIST CHURCH.

The services at the church yesterday partook of the general joy of resurrection day.

The interior of the church was appropriately decorated with lilies, marguerites and festoons of smilax. The music was in harmony with the thought of the day. The choir sang Verd's "Christ the Lord is Risen Today." During the offerfory Handel's "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth" was sung by Miss Goodwin.

BUSINESS PICKING UP.

Ravival of Trade Despite the Lowest Prices Ever Known.
Dun's Review of Business and Finance, Dun's Review of Business and Finance, published at New York, has the following for the week ending March 17:

Week by week it is found possible by an increasing number of concerns to revive production with a general range of prices the lowest ever known. As old stock gives out, orders for replenishment are first for cheaper goods than have before been chosen, traders therein representing consumers who are therein representing consumers who are compelled or desire to live more cheaply. Then the quantities ordered are so much smaller than the industries have been accustomed to supply, and have been accustomed to supply, and so far below the capacity of works that the competition drives prices in each grade down to or below actual cost, squeezing down profits and forcing down wages. Yet the profits and the wages are the fund from which future purchases for consumption must be made. It is under such conditions that made. It is under such conditions that more works are going into operation; many with a doubt as to how long they will be able to operate. Thus the measure of resumption by works or hands or hours of labor is not a measure of the revival of business either as to quantity or value of goods distributed. Prices of commodities are this week on the whole the lowest of which there is any record, having declined 1.2 per cent. In March, and averaging 11.3 per cent. lower than a year ago, so that more ost to the World for Seven Long Years.

AS FROM THE DEAD.

Strange Story of Charles H. Cameron.

Estate Administered Upon by His Relatives.

ally Located in This City, Where He Ha for Some Months-Story of His Wanderings as Told by Charles H. Cameron of Portland, Or., is dead, and has been since 1887— at least, that is what the court records will show. Strange as it may seem, however, he is alive, and has been living in this city for the past eight months.

It seems that in 1887 Cameron owned a half section of timber land in what was then Washington Territory, about fifty miles up the river above Astoria. He had not yet received the government patent on the land, and was then living

H. A. Hogue, who was also a resident of Portland at that time, owned a mill not far from Cameron's land, in Washington, and finally made an arrangement with Cameron to purchase

The agreement was that Cameron should receive $1500 for the land, $500 in cash and the remaining $1000 as soon as the patent for the land could soon as the patent for the and countered. Hogue paid Cameron the money, according to agreement, and gave a receipt—which Cameron still has—showing the $500 paid, and that the remaining $1000 was to be paid as soon as the government patent could be obtained.

Cameron received the $500 and on Cameron received the $500, and on that very night disappeared. Every effort to ascertain his whereabouts proved fruitless. It was thought he might have been murdered and his body buried in some of the immense piles of sawdust near one of the saw mills he used to pass, but no evidence could be had to sustain such a theory. His relatives also thought he might have been "shanghaled nor pressed in service aboard some ship. They, therefore, waited for about three years, so as to give him time to reach some port and either return in person or else communicate with them as to where he was.

and either return in person or else communicate with them as to where he was.

Hearing nothing from him after three years, his relatives had his brother appointed as administrator on his estate, and his property matters were thus finally closed up.

Cameron, who at present goes by the name of C. H. Cowan, is living in a small house near First street and not far east of the Terminal raliway depot.

When seen by a Times man yesterday he related his story somewhat disconnectedly, but told of numerous interesting experiences he had had.

He was born, he said, in the State of New York, not far from Oswego, and when but a lad began a seafaring life. Later on he drifted to Chicago, where he remained for several years during the summer time, at which season he found employment there. In the winter of each of those years he would work his way down the Mississippi River to New Orleans, from whence he would ship to various ports of the world. On one of these voyages while stopping at a port in France he had his right forearm tattooed, which mark he still bears.

Later on he worked in Wyoming and Nebraska, and was one of the first men that was employed in the construction of the Union Pacific Rallway, where it crosses the Rocky Mountains. He figally drifted to Washington Territory and to Portland, where this story commences.

After receiving the $500 paid him by forced to accompany tramps and at other times he was able to secure regular employment.

After getting an indefinite sort of an existence for some four years he took passage for San Diego, where he landed about three years ago. He vioes not give the particulars, but states that the recipt for the land—which was in effect a note—was stolen from him at one, time during his rovings and he was unable to get it back for a number of months. He had good reason for suspecting who had taken it, however, and finally again, secured possession of the valuable piece of paper.

The thought of informing his relatives as to his whereabouts often occurred to him, but, as he had but little ahead, he did not make himself known to them while matters were in such shape with him. What he constantly had in mind was, by some piece of good luck, to obtain a snug fortune—even though it might be a small one—and then present himself in handsome style to his wondering and astonished relatives and old friends. Fortune falling to smile on him, save from a distance, he did not let his people know of his existence. In order that he might be the surer of their not knowing that he was yet alive he went under assumed names, and, after his return to this country, under the name of Charles H. Cowan, the change being only in his last name, Something over a year ago he had got enough ahead so that he was able to purchase a horse and all the necessary equipment for a prospecting outfit. For a period of five months he traveled through southeastern California and Arizona in search of the much-hunted for Pegleg mine. With the aid of only a map and compass he traveled alone, sometimes not seeing another human being for a period of four or five weeks.

After having lost twe horses in what proved to be a fruitless search for a fortune, he abandoned prospecting and being for a period of four or five weeks.

After having lost twe horses in what proved to be a fruitless search for a fortune, he abandoned prospecting and at last settled in Los Angeles.

Since last August he has lived at the place above mentioned, and sarned a living by peddling fish. He keeps a horse, and, after having cleaned and cared for the fish which he gets, he drives about the city selling them.

Having lived alone for so many years he has adopted a style of his own in keeping house, which, although it might not prove satisfactory to a New England housewife, is ordinarily comfortable.

The house has two rooms, the front one of which is about ten feet square. A framework in one corner, provided with blankets, serves for a bed. A small table holds what dishes he needs out of which to eat, and near by is a gasoline stove and a little lamp stove, which can be used when the gasoline stove is not needed.

The room also contains a chair and few other articles necessary.

In the room behind the front one are stored more or less of the things needed for cleaning fish. A hose connected with an outside hydrant renders it easy to get water. A hole in the rear of the room permits of feeding and watering the horse in the adjoining stable without leaving the house. Mr. Cowan, or Cameron, as his real name is, has gone through enough interesting experiences to fill several dime novels with lively reading. He has fought Indians, shot bears, prospected for gold, traveled extensively and worked in the fishing business with considerable success.

Although appearently not more than fishing business with considerable success.

Although apparently not more than 50, he says he is more than 60 years of age. Almost always healthy, he has of late found himself not so well, and, in fact, is some of the time not able to work. He says he has seen about as much as life as he wants to. As to whether he was ever married, he says he once was, but has but little to say in regard to it, except to express himself as much disgusted with it elf. It is understood, however, that before his mysterious disappearance from Portland he came from Chicago to get away from a woman with whom he had injudiciously associated, and who had two daughters, although not by him.

had two daughters, although not by him.

This woman had been robbing and blackmailing him out of money, and followed him to Oregon, where she continued her persecutions.

The question of whether Cameron will be able to get back the $1000 shown to be due him on the note given him by Mr. Hogue, may prove an interesting one. When Cameron's estate was administered upon, Hogue paid the $1000, so it will be seen that Hogue has no further responsibility in the matter. If there are a number of heirs, and the estate has been divided between them, it may be a difficult legal question to settle whether they can be made to return their respective inheritances to the one who legally is deceased. It seems likely, however, that Cameron's brother will do for bim the best that can be done under the circumstances.

He had a number of times refore left his relatives without informing them of his whereabouts and returned after an absence of years. He did not think of his relatives being worried about him this time, and so did not left them know of his dearture. Having never had much to do with law or with matters appertaining to it he did not think of any difficulty arising from the legal questions, which by his mysterious disappearance would be raised regarding his property.

After leaving Portland he went to Astoria, where he remined colly a short time, before taking passage to the South Sea Islands. His money had become exhausted and he obtained a precarious living as best he could. Some of the time he found himself forced to accompany tramps and at other times he was able to secure regular employment.

P TO the panic of last season this house was showing a tremendous increase over the preceding year; after it the trade was demoralized. Once more we are able to say trade is showing another large jump upward. The coming carnival has been taken hold of by energetic business men. At first it was the Merchants' Association; now the entire city and county is falling into line, and it is everybody's carnival. You had better buy your decorations now; over 20,000 yards will be used by the La Fiesta Committee for street decorations alone. The supply is limited; no more can be had after this lot, bear this in mind. This carnival has been gotten up to attract visitors-to bring business. Already it is more than an assured success. The floral decoration of carriages alone will be worth coming hundreds of miles to see. We have been preparing for the 40,000 visitors, who will surely be here, by laying in a tremendous stock to supply the demand. Every department is carrying larger stocks than usual: every department is showing a good increase over the trade of a year ago, and when the strangers come, who are coming, we hope to be fully prepared with everything necessary to supply all demands. Today look in upon our Dress Goods stock. Note particularly the values in the 50c line. Over 100 different styles in All-wool fabrics and fully as many more in Plain Goods. 50c a yard for goods-if imported would cost you $1, and they would be none the better for being imported. We have studied your economy this season in our purchases and in looking through our Dress Goods Department you will see at a glance the values are extraordinary. Finest values at $1, largest variety at $1, choicest Colorings at $1. The Dollar Dress Goods line is the largest and finest and the choicest yet offered in the big Dress Goods Department of the house. New India Silks, new Jap Silks, new China Silks, 50c, 75c and $1 a yard. Swivel Silks, 27 inches wide. 75c: new for Blouse Waists, new for Dress Skirts, new for Full Suits. Have you visited the big Cloak Department? Hundreds of new Capes came to hand last week; hundreds more of new Jackets; the best of all is the extreme low price. Our Cloak Dept. is conducted upon a legitimate basis; one price to all. The Millinery Department has attractive bargains; the Trimmings first-class; the prices lowest on every

A Poolish Mistake Which Cost Los Angele One Pirst Prize-The Work of the Judges Analyzed - The

The judges of the interstate orange competition have completed their work, says the San Francisco Examiner of Wednesday. The judges found that there were very few plates of oranges that did not have to be judged, and the immense amount of plates to be handled made their task of judging a very difficult one. It was found that the growers in the various districts had so carefully selected their fruit that, to do justice, the majority of the exhibitors must receive awards. Under the old system a much less number of awards would have been given, and much fine fruit would receive no recognition, but under the new system, which places every exhibit of a variety against every other exhibit of the same variety, it has been found possible to do justice to all.

The awards on lemons will be made public as soon as returns can be received from the Stanford University, the chemical department of which is at present giving the lemons a scientific test. The judges on apples have empleted their work, and their report with be made public in a few days.

A pended is a complete list of awards made on oranges, with dounties, the figure in the outside column representing points of excellence rinning from the toten. The figures in the first column show the grade of the premium, there being three in each class:

WHERE ORANGES GROW BEST. Competition of the Northern and Souther Citrus Belts.

Pollowing up the subject, the Exam iner of Saturday gives the following analysis of the awards, as published above: For years there has been a gre

Southern California as to which was the real citrus belt—as to which section could produce oranges to the best advantage.

Los Angeles and Riverside, San Diego and Pasadena, have sneered at the claims of Butte and Temaha, Placer and Sacramento, while Tulare and Fresno have pointed the finger of scorn at both and—been pointed at in turn. The northern counties have insisted that their crup was earlier, as well as better, and there has been more iridescent imagination than golden fruit brought to bear on the controversy.

Now, the competition at the Mid-Now, the competition at the Mid-winter Fair has settled all this. There is no longer room for jealous bicker-ing and sneering recriminations. The upshot of the awards has been that one section. is just about as good as another, and that all may enter into a competition with equal hopes of pre-ferment.

The volume whose title is given above is of especial interest to local readers, from the fact that its author is a resident of this city and the secretary of the Los Angeles Single-tax Club. This new novel, which has just made its appearance, is destined to be to the single-tax movement what "Looking Backward" was to nationalism. Following is a comment from the pen of W. E. Brokan, editor of the St. Louis Courber, the official single-tax organ of the United States:
"It is a far better picture of an ideal individualism than Bellamy's "Looking Backward" is of nationalism. The placing of the Utopia at the earth's center is unique, and arouses the curiosity of the reader. The numerous suggestions of methods of free competition and independence of individuals are interesting, and doubtless will do much to arouse thought."

exhibitors.

From all their tasting, measuring and handling they came to one broad conclusion:

"There is no possible way of telling from what part of the State the different samples come, and no person living can tell."

Then the distribution of the awards was such as to show that Northern, Central and Southern California all have favored localities, which produce the orange at its very best, and that no one county, one section or one di-vision can say: "This is the real cit-rus belt. All the rest are counter-feits."

Fus bert. All the rest are counterfeits."

Prof. Emory E. Smith, who is at the head of the agricultural and horticultural exhibit and the professor of horticulture at the Stanford University, said yesterday:

"There is no longer any doubt that Northern and Central California can enter into full competition with Southern California in a display of citrus fruits. In the Southern California display Tulare entered and really swept things. She made a wonderful showing.

play Tulare entered and really swept things. She made a wonderful showing.

"Now along come Butte and Tehama and some of the other northern counties and get enough commendation from the judges to show that they are no whit behind in the competition. No man can say that the very best oranges come from any one section, for the awards show that several sections are equally favored. Then, too, all this talk about priority regarding time of ripening goes for nothing, as the exhibit has shown that all sections may compete with each other at their very best at exactly the same time.

"As to relative merit, Butte seems to excel in the production of St. Michael oranges, as most of the high awards went to that county. San Diego, Los Angeles and Tulare also showed excellent specimens, however. In raising Washington navels, Los Angeles excelled, with Butte, Ventura and Riverside well up. Phoenix, Ariz, also sent specimens which took high rank. Tulare also sent specimens which narrowly missed getting in the front rank. Los Angeles and Tehama led off on the Mediterranean sweets, while Tulare showed seedlings of the highest grade. Though there were no Malta bloods considered of first-grade excellence, there was little to choose in the matter of points between Butte. Riverside, Los Angeles, Tulare and some of the Ventura and San Diego displays. San Bernardino sent tangerines of the highest class.

"So you see how different sections."

Angeres, turn and San Diego displays. San Bernardino sent tangerines of the highest class.

"So you see how different sections produce equally good fruit. One section may lose in thickness of skin, but make up in sweetness or commercial quality.

"Take some of the Indian River crages of Florida and for lusciousness and juciness they may excel anything we have in California, but one box of our oranges is worth three of theirs for commercial purposes, because their crages will be first place, Riverside the second and Los Angeles the third. As a matter of fact, however, Los Angeles showed the best commercial oranges, and had them box to make the first place, Riverside the second and Los Angeles the third. As a matter of fact, however, Los Angeles showed the best commercial oranges, and had them packed in the best style. But they foolishly put them in competition in a fancy oak box with picture-frame molding and all that sort of thing. Of course such a box had no commercial value whatever, as the cost of the box would be three times the cust make ing. Butte, however, showed a remarkably handsome box of oranges, commercially considered.

"Here is what Prof. E. J. Wickson of the State University, who was one of the judges, has to say regarding locality:

"The contest will strongly enforce the conclusion which all fair-minded or the judges, has to say regarding locality;

"The contest will strongly enforce the conclusion which all fair-minded people reached from their own observations long ago, and that is that many parts of the State are producing oranges of the highest grade and that it is no longer of any use to claim that any locality has a monepoly of the best citrus conditions.
The records show that fruit from widely distant regions scored actually the same figure in many cases, and where there is possibly a difference of a point or two, it was, perhaps, owing to the chance that threw a better specimen under the suffe at one time than another.

"So, take it for all in all, though Southern California of course pad the

another."
"So, take it for all in all, though Southern California, of course, rad the most numerous exhibits, though some counties like Placer and Fresno were not properly, represented,, and though some specially spirited men have gone into the raising of citrus fruits in Tulare, it cannot be said that there is any one spot which is the real citrus belt of California."

(While all that is

While all that is said above is probably true, to be absolutely fair the judges should have stated that, while oranges can doubtless be produced in many sections of the State, as a matter of fact orange-growing as a business is confined to the southern portion exclusively, a statement which will be borne out by reference to the shipping statistics,—Ed Times.)

SHELTERED WAIFS. By Edson B. Russell. (Minneapolis: The Buckeye, Publishing Company.)
Pictures and verse combined make a charming little volume, for the illustrations are admirably fitted to the text. There are pictures of sky and meadow and running streams, and songs of the fair, sweet country, of which the following is a sample, are full of the breath of the fields:

"Remembering the Orllays
That rose from meadows fresh and fair,
the birds that swing on willow boughs,
Haif drunk with May's delicious air;
The hum of the burly bumble-bee
From sodded field and orchard tree.

"The lowing herds, the bleating flocks, And sudden dash of fleeting showers, The tranquil sky at event de. And languid peace of midday hours, The broad-eaved barn where rose the din Of swallows, when the hay come in." All these and other things remind our author of the country's breath and beauty, and inspire his songs.

MUNICIPAL REFORM. Corrections and Additions to Mr. Me

HOLIDAYS IN ENGLAND. By Cathedral Cities. (New York and London: Edited by Percey Lindley.)

There are many ways of going abroad and seeing the world, and there is none with so few discomforts as the one which takes us across the seas and conflipents by means of books of travel. For the American tourist in the old country, one of the most interesting districts in all England has recently been opened up, and it traverses East Anglia, that Old World district which played its striking part in the making of England and the making of America. Numerous are the other places of interest described, and illustrated, and the reader of the little book will if he has any imagination almost fancy that he has seen them all.

FROM EARTH'S CENTER. A Polar Country was the contract of the little book will appear to the little book will see them all. dil's Remarks.

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—(To the Editor of The Times.) The report of my remarks at the municipal reform meeting of Saturday right was generally correct; but I find some errors, either of misapprehension on the part of the reporter, or made by myself. I may have "dropped some stitches" in the thread of the discourse. Will you please permit me to correct them? Speaking of the present Chicago police and fire departments, I am relice and fire departments, I am re-

Speaking of the present Chicago police and fire departments, I am reported as saying:

"We have one Commissioner of Police, called the Chief of Police. We have one head of the fire department, and it is a very large fire department. I think there are one hundred engines or more and three thousand firemen or more, and the chief officer is called the Fire Marshal. We have three or four more officers. We have one Health Officer."

This should read: "We have only one Commissioner of Police, called the Chief of Police, instead of a board of police commissioners, as under our old charter, and the force now numbers nearly three thousand men. Instead of a fire board, as formerly, we have now one chief officer, called the Fwe Marshal. We have thus unified the control and management of those two great and important departments, thereby rendering them far more efficient and useful. We have three or four other chiefs, or heads of departments, such as the Commissioner of Public Works, which formerly was conducted by a board of irresponsibility, extravagance and inefficiency. We have now a Health Officer in place of a health board of half a dozen wrangling physicians. We released the doctors and returned them to their private practice, while our one Health Officer looks after the sanitation of the city far more efficiently than did the large board of doctors. We had a board of returned them to their private practice, while our one Health Officer looks after the sanitation of the city far more efficiently than did the large board of doctors. We had a board of assessment and collection of city taxes, which cost a great deal of money to run. We abolished it and saved the expense," etc.

In another place the report of my remarks reads, viz.:

"Now, the charter was passed upon the theory that the Mayor was not to be intrusted; that the one-man powerwas a bad theory; that nothing less than a division of powers with numerous men was a safe thing for the good the theory that the Mayor was not to be intrusted; that the one-man power was a bad theory; that nothing less than a division of powers with numerous men was a safe thing for the good of the entire city," etc.

This should read: "Now, our old anti-fire charter was made upon the theory," etc. As reported, the reader might suppose I was speaking of our new charter, although the context of my remarks should correct such impression.

new charter, although the context of my remarks should correct such impression.

Speaking of Gen. Sheridan's work on the night of the great fire, the report should read that "he acted as Mayor for us, and helped to save 'part of the tower.' "Not all of it, for more than half of it was destroyed. The report says: "The speaker explained that the system of assessment and tax collections in Chicago is so systematized that a property-owner can at one time and one place pay all of his taxes for a year. Such being the case there is little danger of cloud being placed on a man's property while he is asleen."

Let me this make this important matter a little clearer than the condensed report does. Under the old Chicago charter the city taxes were assessed and collected by the machinery of a city board of assessments—a costly, cumbersome contrivance, which largely increased the number of tax-eating officials. Our special assessments were also reduced to judgments and collected at certain times thereafter by the city tax-collecting machinery; so that the taxpayers were subjected to the trouble and annoyance of keeping track of and paying their city taxes and special assessments to one set of officials, and their State and county and school taxes to the county collectors at other times and places. Thus property-owners were constantly finding some of their property sold to buyers for delinquent taxes or assessments, which they had to redeem from those sharks at great cost for judgments, penalties and redemption fees.

Under our new charter all taxes for city purposes are collected with the State, county and school taxes by the county collectors and treasurer, all at one time and place. Hence a tax receipt to a citizen covers and includes all his taxes and assessments of every descriptive for actach. abreast of the times, even if he reads but little outside.

Worthington's Magazine has a delightful sketch entitled "In the Snake River Valley," by Prof. G. Frederic Wright. Of this little known region he says: "No lofty piles of stone and mortar reared by man can compare with these walls in their solid, simple Egyptian grandeur, and no Gothle cathedral greets the eye with more varied combinations than appear in the magnificent sculpturing of nature upon these battlements. In such a setting the foamy whiteness of the cataract breaks upon your view. Out of such depths the spray rises to the sky, and in this cloudless region greets you with a perpetual rainbow, while the innumerable whispering galleries gather for you the music of the waterfall as it floats through the long corridors which stretch to unseen distance both up and down the stream." The sketch is profusely illustrated. Another article, full of interest to the thoughtful reader, is from the intelligent pen of Lilian Whiting. "To Rise in Newness of Life." The number is a literary treasury.

The Overland Monthly has a delightful paper, "By Northern Rivers," by Nimetta Earnes, which is profusely illustrated. It touches many a point full of beauty and romance, and seems to bring to us again the odes of the pines, the music of lovely waterfalls, by which we have lingered amid the grandeur of the vast Sierras. It is a most companionable number.

seriously-debated question whether it would not be better to make it one term and out a term, and thereby remove from a Mayor the temptation to employ the patronage of his office to secure his own renomination, and thus place himself in the power of scheming and corrupt rings of office-seeking and spoils-hunting politicians. It might conduce to the Mayor's independence and usefulness as a public functionary if he was not subjected to the temptation to prostitute his official powers to remain in office for a second or third consecutive term, when the public good would be better promoted by having him step down and out, a new man to his place. Much can be said on both sides of this mooted question, and I therefore refrained from alluding to it at the meeting of the league.

PASADENA, March 25.—(Special Correspondence.) The weather on Easter Sunday, following its usual custom, was perfect in Pasadena. less and the atmosphere was balmy and perfumed with the odor of flowers, hinting strongly of late spring time in the Eastern States. The churches were crowded. The fioral displays in most instances were highly attractive and artistically arranged, while the display of new bonnets and gowns was simply bewildering.

In Sunday's Times considerable space was devoted to the Easter, services, and the programmes as printed were carried out to the letter. The decerations at some of the churches are deserving of special mention. On the wall in the rear of the Methodist Episcopal Tabernacle pulpit platform was an immense cross of lilles, while the front of the platform was artistically, but not elaborately decorated with lilles and greens, the effect being wholly pleasing. An Easter concert was given at the morning service, the front operation of the central aliae being occupied by the scholars of the Sunday-school, the girl members of which were attired in white dresses. In the evening, Rev. Clark Crawford preached an Easter sermon, and appropriate music was rendered by a choir of fifty.

Among the most tagieful decorations witnessed were those at the First Prespotent Church. The railing of the organ loft was banked with callas and smilax, and the pulpit, platform was very tastefully decorated with lilles, heliotrope and acacaloiossoms. Rev. N. H. G. Fire preached in the morning on "The Resurrection of Christ," and in the evening there was a praise service which was largely attended, The musical programmes as printed yeasterday were carried it. In speaking of the sugar-beet industry, Mr. Meyerhoff writes that the farmers in that country do not raise beets upon the same land every year, but instead, rotate the crops so that each piece of land produces a crop of beets about every three years. crops of wheat, barley or corn being produced upon the land during the intervening years, He says that the land usually produces from one hundred to two hundred upon the factory are paid for the beets by the factory are paid for the beets by the factory are paid from 50 cents to $1.50 per ton more than the factory, he says that the usual price paid for the beets by the factory are paid from 50 cents to $1.50 per ton more than the farmers who are not so find the valuable of the beets by the factory are paid from 50 cents to $1.50 per ton more than the farmers who are not once than the farmers who are not so find any are paid from 50 cents to $1.50 per ton more than the farmers who are not so find any properties of the season are deducted, and this oftentimes amounts to as much as $5 or $5 per cent. of the investment. Plans for Water Supply-A Small Celebra Plans for Water Supply—A Small Colobration—Entert-sinments—Notes.

SOLDIERS HOME, March 23.—(Special Correspondence.) Maj. A. W. Barrett was at the home on Thursday in consultation with Maj. Thornton and Supt. of Grounds Goodale upon the water problem, which the small rainfall of the season has made imminent. Col. Lawton was also called into the consultation as representative of the War Department.

tion as representative of the War Department.

The situation that confronts the home is this: The presumed main supply reservoir, Lake Brown, now contains something above a million gallons of water, entirely left over from the catchment of a year ago. The rains thus far have contributed nothing to this amount, and the season is now so late none can be expected. This reservoir is losing more thon 40,000 gallons per day by leakage and absorption, and must therefore drop out of the calculations for the impending dry season.

The smaller reservoir is now furnishing seventy gallons of water per minute, which is just about equal to needs of consumption; but later this supply will decline, possible to twenty gallons par misute, an amount totally inadequate to the requirements.

A careful estimate credits the well on the northern part of the grounds with a capacity of 200 gallons of water per minute, and that a $500 plant will make this supply available. After careful review of all these conditions it was decided to petition the board of managers for suthority to begin the immediate or the pumping plant, there being the problem, which will result in furnishing the home an abundant and permanent supply.

The Episcopal Chapel was very tastily festooned, and the Union Church presented a very handsome appearance. Sunday was such a day as to tempt excursionists of all degrees, and both roads did a good business in consequence.

The new baths are proving a continuing attraction, and they were liberally patronized by many of the Sunday crowd.

suing attraction, and they were liberally patronized by many of the Suinday crowd.

The ball at Hotel Redondo proved to be a very pleasant occasion Saturday vening, and was participated in very generally by the numerous guests now in the house. Besides these there were quite a number of people in attendance from Los Angeles.

Among family parties now domiciled at the Redondo Hotel are E. H. Davis and wife, Chicago: James McCrossen and wife, Warsaw, Wis., and Mrs. H. H. Grace, West Superior, Wis.

The steamer South Coast is now at wharf discharging her cargo of 280,000 feet of pine from Portland, which is consigned to the Willamette Lumber Company.

The steamer Alcatraz, from Eureka, dropped anchor in the stream Sunday morning. She brings 10,000 ties for the Southern California Railroad.

J. H. Slocum of Vancouver, accompanied by his brother, Frank Slocum of San Bernardino, were among the Sunday visitors.

The winter past has been rather dry, to be sure, but not so much so as to hinder a splendid growth by the many hundreds of trees which have been planted over the town plat. These have come forward within the few months last past so as to completely change the appearance of the place.

Beet-sugar Statistics Given by

SAN BERNARDINO, March 25.—(Special Correspondence.) Every few weeks a statement of some sort respecting the work, the receipts, the outlay, or something of the Chino beet-sugar factory goes the rounds of the press, and in these there are often contradictory statements. Such should not be the case, as Mr. Gird has always shown a disposition to state the facts respecting this gigantic enterprise, whoever the applicant for information might be. The Times has taken pains to secure the correct figures respecting the beet-sugar industry as carried on at Chino. The chief points of interest to the general public are embodied in the following statement: Last year there was grown at Chino, in round numbers, 3000 acres of sugar beets, yielding 45,000 tons, or an average of fifteen tons per acre. In addition to this the factory purchased from Anahelm 7000 tons of beets, and paid for the $2,000 over $200.000, or nearly $100 per acre for the beets. The actual $600 per acre for the paid about $30,000 for their beets wiss $137,812.94. The nahelm farmers, were paid about $30,000 for the beets they furnished. The amount the beets they furnished. The amount can be beet they for labor connected with the growing of the beets and manufacture of the susar was $100,000. Besides this labor account the 170 farmers growing beets upon their own or leasers growing bets upon their own or leasers growing beets upo

STRIKE STILL ON.

After a week's waiting the strike of the boiler-makers in the Santa Fe shops in this city shows no signs of nearing an adjustment. The cause of the strike was the wages received, the strandard wages for boiler-makers being $3.80 per day, while the master mechanic of the Santa Fe refused to pay more than $3.25 a day. There are eighteen men out at this place, and the idleness in the boiler-shops will soon cause some in other departments to be thrown out, because of the blocking of work passing through the boiler-shops.

CITY TRUSTEE VACANCY.

F. A. Urban, proprietor of the New St. Charles Hotel, is being spoken of as a candidate for the city trusteeship from the Third Ward, to take the place of Trustee Potter, resigned. Mr. Urban is a Democrat, but party politics will, it is likely, play but little part in the election. The question will be upon Sunday opening or Sunday closing of the business houses, and Mr. Urban is in favor of Sunday opening, and opposed to the present policy of the city fathers of keeping everything closed.

The address that followed by Mr. Tayler was an eloquent and practical presentation of the work of the Y.W. C.A., and expressed most clearly the aims of the association. It was apparent to all that he had given the subject careful thought, and he earnestly recommended the plans for this work to his hearers. He said this originated about seven years ago in colleges, and there are now about two hundred and fifty college and fifty-three city associations in the United States. It is a work of women for women, and especially suitable and desirable in large cities where there are so many homeless women. Some of these are tolling to support helpless parents, or to edurate brothers and sisters, and all of them need a helping hand. If it is hard for a young man to get on in a strange city without friends, it is harder still for a young woman. No one can afford to overlook such a good work.

Mr. Tayler extended a cordial greet.

Smuggling Chinese in from Lower California.

Six Heathen Captured by the Marsha National City - Other Arrests Looked for - How It

Six Chinese, who were arrested re-City on suspicion of being unlawfully in the United States, were held to an-swer to the charge by the United States Comissioner at San Diego last Satur-day, and will in all probability be deported in the near future. ported in the near future.

From the evidence introduced at the preliminary examination it appears that between the hours of 6:30 and 7 o'clock in the morning a wagon with very high sideboards was seen near Fruitland, which is three miles from the border. It was being driven at a high rate of speed, and approached from Mexico. When the morning train from Otav arrived at Fruitland at 7:25 high rate of speed, and approached from Mexico. When the morning train from Otay arrived at Fruitland at 7:25 o'clock, six Chinese with bundles boarded it and rode to National City. Upon learning of their arrival the City Marshal of that place, and the deputy collector of customs made an investigation, as the result of which it was ascertained that only one of the sextette could speak any English, and his was very imperfect. He stated, however, that he and his companions had been down near the border working for a man named George Williams; but the only man of that name in the vicinity, upon being subpoenaed, denied that he ever employed Chinese. The trail of a wagon was found at Maitland, and traced from the line to the identical pepper tree under which the Chinese were squatting when the train pulled in from Otay, and, after making a complete circle round the tree, doubled back again. In addition to this almost complete chain of evidence, letters in Chinese were found on the persons of the heathens, informing the addresse what to say if arrested; but these were sent to San Francisco for translation, in order to avoid any controversy.

It is probable that further arrests will grow out of this affair, as the authorities have a good clew to the identity of the man who drove the wagon, and when caught he may be induced to disclose the names of his principals in the business of smuggling Chinese over the border, which has been carried on for some time past.

There are different ways of making iving easier—making it more pleasant. One of the best is relief of indigestion. A man who has that cannot enjoy his food. It is hard to find life pleasant; it makes attention to business difficult. The state of the stomach and brain are so closely connected—natural thing, then, to say relief of indigestion makes living easier. That is got by use of the genuine Johann Hoff's Mait Extract.
